1. Read the passage given below :

10

- (i) While endowing senior citizens with a silvered halo of respectability, we should always remember that the ageing process inevitably renders them forgetful, absent-minded and myopic - frailties that surround them, often leaving them exasperated and at their wit's end.
- (ii) Helping to clear the dining table after breakfast recently, I dutifully picked up the table mats and butter dish, depositing the former in the fridge and the latter on the shelf. Another time I slipped my visiting card into a post box while the letter to be posted remained in my shirt pocket. The other day, I started brushing my teeth only to discover that I was using a foul tasting skin cream. Once, mistaking my toothpaste for shaving cream, I lathered my face with it. Why do toiletries come in identical looking tubes ?
- (iii) The elderly misplace nothing more often than their spectacles. Then everyone at home is roped into search for them.
- (iv) Now, with everyone wearing a mask, recognition has become tricky for the short-sighted seniors. My physically distanced but friendly 'Hi' directed at seemingly familiar faces sometimes elicits a stony and uncomprehending stare. Apparently, few like to be mistaken for someone else unless, of course that someone happens to be a celebrity !
- (v) I can still drive a car, I am no speedster, nor do I compete with those who are. I remember, having once seen a very sensible road - safety sign : " If you want to see 90, don't look for it on the speedometer !"
- (vi) Then sometime ago, while out trekking in the hills with friends, I learnt the hard way that agility is unquestionably age-linked. Required to jump across a gully, I gamely did so - only to end up at its slushy bottom, luckily sustaining nothing more than a badly bruised ego ! Yet I'm inclined to endorse American Stateman Bernard Baruch's sunny observations, "To me old age is always 15 years older than I am".

2. Read the following passage : 10

- (i) Remember gaming cafes ? Those hourly charged Local Area Network (LAN) gaming set-ups, where gaming enthusiasts from the neighbourhood, gathered to unlock the next level. This was the start of a new wave in the gaming sector ; it evolved from being one or two person experience to a communal affair. Hyper- localised tournaments between cyber-cafes and gaming hubs soon became frequent.
- (ii) “ The e-sports boom now has revitalised the gaming scene by showcasing regional talent and drawing investment, which enhances the gaming eco-system's infrastructure. This growth is creating jobs and attracting more young people into careers in gaming, from game development to content creation. This shift signals a cultural change in India, where gaming is now seen as a legitimate form of entertainment and a career option”, shares Anurag Banerjee, CPTO and co-founder, Light Fury Games.
- (iii) “The Indian online gaming market saw explosive growth, with gamers rising from 250 million in 2018 to 400 million by mid 2020, driven by lockdowns, remote work and a shift to virtual Social interactions”, highlights a KPMG report. Mobiles, laptops and computers became the new playgrounds, and suddenly a new gaming scene in India erupted. “We witnessed an extraordinary surge in gaming influencers and content creators, who quickly became household names, amassing millions of views each week,” shares Vishal Singh Mithani, founder of Envify Media.

- (iv) This enthusiasm for gaming has also converted into profitable sales figures. The gaming industry in India is now in a much better position than it used to be. "The online gaming industry in India has seen a rapid expansion with a 28 percent CAGR (Compound Annual Growth Rate), between 2020 and 2024, and projections indicate further growth to 33,243 crore by 2028, with a sustained 15% CAGR." explains Kashyap Reddy, co-founder and CEO, Hitwicket Mobile Game.
- (v) Adding to this, Nathani says, "Gaming cafes walked so that India's gaming culture could run. While the pandemic saw a surge in personal gaming setups, gaming cafes still remain an integral part of the scene. They provide an accessible entry point for anyone, from the casual player to the aspiring pro, without the hefty investment of a high end PC or laptop. These cafes still serve as vibrant hubs where gamers can immerse themselves in their favourite titles, compete with friends and be a part of a community.
